DRUG ALERT
Information for Professionals

Unexpected & dangerous side effects reported
Blue pills – being sold as Oxycodone, that have "30" and/or "M" on them

There are reports from London and Wales of small round blue pills that have "30" or "M" on them, being sold as Oxycodone but in fact contain Etonitazene/ Metonitazene.

Etonitazene and Metonitazene (related) are synthetic opioids which are significantly stronger than Oxycodone.

These are no reports currently that these are in circulation across Southampton, Hampshire, the Isle of Wight, and Portsmouth

Consequences of taking this dangerous substance
Unexpected and dangerous side effects have been reported including overdose and suspected death.
